Several wolves, evidently members of the pack which was originally seen in the town of Center, have been prowling about the woods in the town of Janesville, just west of this city, according to J. W. Little, who saw two of the wild beasts in a wood lot near his farm on Thursday. He was able to get within eight or ten feet of one of the animals and knocked it over with a light charge of shot, but the animal escaped before Mr. Little could complete the killing. Sheep are kept on several of the farms in this locality, which doubtless attract the wolves, although no flocks have been attacked as far as has been learned.

The state gets 30 per cent of the gross proceeds and the fishermen 70 per cent. The only expense to the state is the cost of supervising the hauls. The last haul made on Lake Monona here, last Monday, was one of 80,000 pounds, making three carloads and not a game fish was found. F., Dec. 4.—Relief for the destitute inhabitants of the barren Labrador region has been under way since the coast was closed by ice as late as August 1, with resultant low temperature on land, the cod and other large fish were too cold to mesh in the nets or take bait, the smaller fish held fast of shore, potato plants did not appear above the ground and the berry crops were practically a failure. ## OFFICER HAS OPERATION DONE BY SWORD WOUND.

(Correspondence of The A. P.) Paris, Dec. 4.—The chief of a battalion of colonial infantry tells of this remarkable incident: "Before the war broke out I suffered from an abscess of the liver that was so placed that the doctors said an operation would be too dangerous. I had before me the little comforting thought that I should have to live with it. With this prospect in view, it did not cost me any effort at all to summon the courage to wait into the Germans. One day we were upon a bank of the Rhine, and I was struck by a bullet in the chest. The wound was not serious, but it was a serious one. The surgeons began to investigate the wound. What was that you had inside of you, anyway?" he asked. "Whatever it was that I had inside of me, it was a wound that the surgeon dreaded, and now I am almost ready to go back to the front."

THE RETAILER Sells Service

The retail storekeeper sells service, charging a profit. He gathers merchandise from a multitude of sources and distributes it to consumers. He usually safeguards his customers with his guarantee. A good merchant tries to give his public what it wants. For this reason the modern merchant feels kindly towards national standard products when they are advertised in the newspapers. He knows his customers are newspaper readers and he will want to see these newspaper advertised goods.

FOR THIS REASON THE UP TO DATE MERCHANT BACKS UP THE MANUFACTURER'S NEWSPAPER.

The dispatch said: "In Serbia the enemy, resisting with all its force on the east bank of the river Calubara and Ljda, after a most obstinate fight on the whole line, was beaten. The enemy retired with considerable losses. Since the beginning of the last offensive we have captured 19,000 prisoners. The front in west Galicia and Russian Poland was generally quiet yesterday. On the front before Przemyśl, the enemy trying to approach from the north of the fortress, was repulsed by a counter attack of the garrison. Commander of the fifth army sent the emperor a telegram of homage announcing the occupation of Belgrade by the Austro-Hungarian troops. An attack of the Russians near Wolbrom was repulsed. Otherwise there is relative calm."

GIVE EDWARD LOESY A TERM UNDER THE COMMITMENT LAW

BROADHEAD YOUTH SENTENCED TO NINE MONTHS FOR MINOR OFFENSE TODAY.

STILL INVESTIGATING

May Issue More Warrants for Arrest of Several Whore Police Records Are Being Investigated.

Edward Loesy, aged 18 years, of Broadhead, was sentenced to nine months in the county jail, under the commitment law, for guilty to Judge Maxfield in the municipal court at noon today, to having "contributed to the delinquency of Rachel Manning and Ruth Wheelock, aged 13 and 14 years respectively. Loesy is the second to be sentenced in two days' time on the sensational developments of the investigation made by Chief Champion and District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie. Perry Boon having been sentenced to Waupun prison for two years yesterday. The warrant charges against Loesy was returned by District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie this morning, as it appeared the charge of indecent and improper liberties with the Manning girl, while the charge of the offense could not be proved against him by the girl's testimony in her confession to Chief Champion. The penalty for this crime is two years in the county jail and the maximum fine of $1000. Loesy was represented by Attorney W. H. Dougherty, who, after conferring with District Attorney Dunwiddie, entered a plea of guilty to the charge. The arguments were made to show that no serious offense could be proven against the Broadhead young man and a light sentence was recommended.

Judge Maxfield questioned Loesy and found he had no previous criminal record. The Manning girl in Broadhead, but had never seen Ruth Wheelock until Sunday afternoon, when the three went to the assembly hall, where the young man was committed and will be paroled out by Sheriff Whitple in the near future.

More warrants are expected to be issued this afternoon, which will cause the arrest of at least one other local man, whose reputation is extremely unsavory in police records. Chief Champion this afternoon refused to divulge information of what crime the men would be charged further than to assert "that everyone implicated in the affair would be prosecuted." It was also intimated that one more girl under fifteen years of age, might be called before the juvenile branch of the court to explain recent misconduct which has been called to the attention of the police during the last few months.

"Now that these revolting offenses have come to light, none will be spared, and if the girls all verify their stories on the stand, the charges should be proven," declared Champion.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Perhaps Grace Better Stick to the Old Job—

BY F. LEIPZIGER

Rest.
Some doctors say that if a woman could really rest until ten o'clock every day she would add a decade to her life. It is the only thing that lets us catch up with ourselves.

When You Can Tell Them.
"Success brings out a man's friends." "Yes, but if you want to know your real friends count the few who support you when you don't seem to have a chance to win."—Detroit Free Press.

BAD BLOOD.

Hatred of the Nations for One Another.

This European war was born of the hatred caused by earlier warfare—it will engender other wars between the same nations in the future. The sons yet unborn will carry this hatred in their blood to blaze into warlike when the spark is touched by Kings or Statesmen who are yet in infancy. It's bad blood that makes your liver glug and the same bad blood causes your stomach muscle to lose its elasticity and become flabby and weak, that means indigestion.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, purely vegetable and free from alcohol or narcotics, is not a secret remedy for all the ingredients are printed on wrapper.

Take it as directed and it will search out impure and poisonous matter in the stomach, liver, bowels and kidneys and drive it from the system through the natural channels. It will penetrate into the joints and muscles, and dissolve the poisonous accumulations. It will replace all the bad blood it drives out, with rich pure blood full of vital force. It will turn you with the kind of blood that increases energy and ambition, that puts the entire body in such perfect physical condition that brain or muscles know no fatigue.

It will clear the skin; eczema, pimples, rash, blotches will dry up and disappear; boils, carbuncles and other evidences of tainted blood will pass away never to appear again.

Get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery at any medicine dealer today, in either liquid or tablet form as you prefer. It's the one great blood purifier and purifier that all weak or run down people ought to start to use at once. If you want good blood, good health and clear skin, get a supply today.

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician:

Dr. F. M. Edwards, for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During those years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, you will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers in the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter that clogs the system.

If you have a pale face, yellow look, bad eyes, pimples, coated tongue, flatulence, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women, as well as men, take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets now and then just to keep in the pink of condition.

Lung Trouble Yielded to This Medicine

If you are suffering with serious lung trouble, it will pay to fully investigate the following remedy, a remedy which has cured many cases of lung trouble.

Says Edward A. Miller, an oculist in the winter of 1913 I had a severe attack of lung trouble, followed by pneumonia, and later by tuberculosis. I was in the hospital for several months, and during that time I was treated by the best of the best, but did not get well. I was then recommended to take a medicine called "Lung Medicine," and I did so. I had the first and only improvement in my condition. I gained strength and weight and was able to go about my usual work. I am now perfectly well and healthy.

The CALL of the CUMBERLANDS

CHAPTER X.

Early that year, the touch of autumn came to the air. Often, returning at sundown from the afternoon life class, Samson felt the lure of its melancholy sweetness, and paused on one of the Washington Square benches, with many vague things stirring in his mind. He felt with a stronger throb the surety of youth, but quickening, abilities within himself. Partly, it was the charm of Indian summer, partly a sense of growing with the days, but also, though he had not as yet realized that, it was the new friendship into which Adrienne had admitted him, and the new experience of frank camaraderie with a woman not as a member of an inferior sex, but as an equal companion of brain and soul. He had seen her often, and usually alone, because he shunned meetings with strangers. Until his education had advanced further, he wished to avoid social embarrassments. He knew that she liked him, and realized that it was because he was a new and virile type, and for that reason a diversion—a sort of human novelty. She liked him, too, because it was rare for a man to offer her friendship without making love, and she was certain he would not make love. He liked her for the same reasons that every one else did—because she was herself. Of late, too, he had not a number of men at Leacock's club. He was modestly surprised to find that, though his attitude on these occasions was always that of one sitting in the background, the men seemed to like him, and, when they said, "See you again," at parting, it was with the convincing manner of real friendship.

One wonderful afternoon in October, when the distances were mist-hung, and the skies very clear, Samson sat across the table from Adrienne Leacock at a road house on the Sound. The sun had set through great cloud battlements muzzled against the west, and the horizon was fading into darkness through a haze like ash of roses. She had picked him up on the Avenue, and taken him into her car for a short spin, but the afternoon had beguiled them, luring them on a little farther, and still a little farther. When they were a score of miles from Manhattan, the car had suddenly broken down. It would, the chauffeur told them, be the matter of an hour to effect repairs, so the girl, explaining to the boy that this event gave the affair the aspect of adventure, turned and led the way, on foot, to the nearest road house.

"We will telephone that we shall be late, and then have dinner," she laughed. "And for me to have dinner with you alone, unchaperoned at a country inn, is by New York standards delightfully unconventional. It borders on wickedness." Then, since their attitude toward each other was so friendly and innocent, they both laughed. They had dined under the trees of an old manor house, built a century ago, and now converted into an inn, and they had enjoyed themselves because it seemed to them pleasantly paradoxical that they should find in a place seemingly so shabby-genteel a cuisine and service of such excellence. Neither of them had ever been there before, and neither of them knew that the reputation of this establishment was in its own way wide and unvarying.

The repairs did not go as smoothly as the chauffeur had expected, and, when he had finished, he was hungry. So, eleven o'clock found them still chatting at their table on the lighted lawn. After awhile, they fell silent, and Adrienne noticed that her companion's face had become deeply, almost painfully, sad, and that his gaze was tensely focused on herself.

"What is it, Mr. South?" she demanded.

The young man began to speak in a steady, self-possessed voice. "I was sitting here, looking at you," he said, bluntly. "I was thinking how fine you are in every way; how there is as much difference in the texture of men and women as there is in the texture of clothes. From that automobile cap you wear to your slippers and stockings, you are clad in silk. From your brain to the tone of your voice, you are woven of human silk. I've learned lately that silk isn't weak, but strong. They make the best balloons of it." He paused and laughed, but his face again became sober. "I was thinking, too, of your mother. She must be sixty, but she's a young woman. Her face is smooth and unlined, and her heart is still in bloom. At the same age, George won't be much older than he is now."

The compliment was so obviously not intended as a compliment at all that the girl flushed with pleasure. "Then," went on Samson, his face slowly drawing with pain. "I was thinking of my own people. My mother was about forty when she died. She was an old woman. My father was forty-three. He was an old man. I was thinking how they withered under their drudgery—and of the monstrous injustice of it all."

Adrienne Leacock nodded. Her eyes were sweetly sympathetic. "It's the hardship of the conditions," she said, softly. "Those conditions will change."

A man had come out onto the veranda from the inside, and was approaching the table. He was immaculately groomed, and came forward with the deference of approaching a throne, yet as one accustomed to approaching thrones. His smile was that of pleased surprise.

The mountaineer recognized Farish, and with a quick hardening of the face, he recalled their last meeting. If Farish should presume to renew the acquaintanceship under these circumstances, Samson meant to rise from his chair, and strike him in the face. George Leacock's sister could not be subjected to such meetings. Yet, it was a tribute to his advancement in good manners that he dreaded making a scene in her presence, and, as a warning, he met Farish's pleasant smile with a look of blank and studied lack of recognition. The circumstances out of which Farish might weave unpleasant gossip did not occur to Samson. That they were together late in the evening, unchaperoned, at a road house whose reputation was socially dubious, was a thing he did not realize. But Farish was keenly alive to the possibilities of the situation. He chose to construe the Kentuckian's blank expression as annoyance at being discovered, a sentiment he could readily understand. Adrienne Leacock, following her companion's eyes, looked up, and to the boy's astonishment nodded to the newcomer, and called him by name.

"Mr. Farish," she laughed, with mock confusion and total innocence of the fact that her words might have meaning, "don't tell on us."

"I never tell things, my dear lady," said the newcomer. "I have dwelt too long in conservatories to toss problems. I'm afraid, Mr. South, you have forgotten me. I'm Farish, and I find the pleasure of meeting you—" he paused a moment, then with a pointed glance added—"at the Manhattan club, was it not?"

"I Was Thinking of My People."

"It was not," said Samson, promptly. Farish looked his surprise, but was resolved to see no offense, and, after a few moments of affable and, it must be acknowledged, witty conversation, withdrew to his own table.

"Where did you meet that man?"

demanded Samson, fiercely, when he and the girl were alone again.

"Oh, at any number of dinners and dances. His sort is tolerated for some reason." She paused, then, looking very directly at the Kentuckian, inquired, "And where did you meet him?"

"Didn't you hear him say the Manhattan club?"

"Yes, and I knew that he was lying."

"Yes, he was!" Samson spoke, contemptuously. "Never mind where it was. It was a place I got out of when I found out who were there."

The chauffeur came to announce that the car was ready, and they went out. Farish watched them with a smile that had in it a trace of the sardonic.

The career of Farish had been an interesting one in its own peculiar and unadmirable fashion. With no advantages of upbringing, he had nevertheless cultivated the niceties of social usage that his one flaw was a too great perfection. He was letter-perfect where one to the manor born might have slurred some detail.

He was witty, handsome in his saturnine way, and had powerful friends in the world of fashion and finance. That he rendered services to his plutocratic patrons, other than the repartee of his dinner talk, was a thing vaguely hinted in club gossip, and that these services were not to his credit had more than once been conjectured.

When Horton had begun his crusade against various abuses, he had cast a suspicious eye on all matters through which he could trace the trail of William Farish, and now, when Farish saw Horton, he eyed him with an enigmatical expression, half-quizzical and half-malevolent.

After Adrienne and Samson had appeared, he rejoined his companion, a stout, middle-aged gentleman of florid complexion, whose cheviot cut-away and reposeful waistcoat covered a liberal embonpoint. Farish took his cigar from his lips, and studied its ascending smoke through lids half-closed and thoughtful.

"Singular," he mused; "very singular!"

"What's singular?" impatiently demanded his companion: "Finish, or don't start."

"That mountaineer came up here as George Leacock's protégé," went on Farish, reflectively. "He came fresh from the feud belt, and landed promptly in the police court. Now, in less than a year, he's pairing off with Adrienne Leacock—who, every one supposed, meant to marry Wilfred Horton. This little party tonight is, to put it quite mildly, a bit unconventional."

The stout gentleman said nothing, and the other questioned, musingly:

"By the way, Bradburn, has the Kenmore Shooting club requested Wilfred Horton's resignation yet?"

"Not yet. We are going to. He's not congenial, since his hand is raised against every man who owns more than two dollars." The speaker owned several million times that sum. This meeting at an out-of-the-way place had been arranged for the purpose of discussing ways and means of curbing Wilfred's crusades.

"Well, don't do it."

"Why the devil shouldn't we? We don't want anarchists in the Kenmore."

After awhile, they sat silent, Farish smiling over the plot he had just devised, and the other man puffing with a puzzled expression at his cigar.

"That's all there is to it," summarized Mr. Farish, succinctly. "If we can get these two men, South and Horton, together down there at the shooting lodge, under the proper conditions, they'll do the rest themselves. I think I'll take care of South. Now, it's up to you to have Horton there at the same time."

"How do you know these men have not already met—and amicably?" demanded Mr. Bradburn.

"I happen to know it, quite by chance. It is my business to know things—quite by chance!"

Indian summer came again to misery, flaunting woodland banners of crimson and scarlet orange, but to Sally the season brought only heart-sore remembrances of last autumn, when Samson had softened his stoicism as the haze had softened the horizon. He had sent her a few brief letters—not written, but plainly printed. He selected short words—as much like the primer as possible, for no other messages could she read. There were times in plenty when he wished to pour out to her torrents of feeling, and it was such feeling as would have carried comfort to her lonely little heart. He wished to tell frankly of what a good friend he had made, and how, this friendship, made him more able to realize that other feeling—his love for Sally. There was in his mind no suspicion—as yet—that these two girls might ever stand in conflict as to the right-of-way. But the letters he wished to write were not the sort he cared to have read to the girl by the evangelist-doctor or the district-school teacher, and alone she could have made nothing of them. However, "I love you" are easy words—and those he always included.

The Widow Miller had been ailing for months, and, though the local physician diagnosed the condition as being "right palsy," he knew that the specter of tuberculosis which stalks through these badly lighted and ventilated houses was stretching out its fingers to touch her shrunken chest. This had meant that Sally had to forego the evening hours to study, because of the weariness that followed the day of nursing and household drudgery. Autumn seemed to bring to her mother a slight improvement, and Sally could again sometimes steal away with her slate and book, to sit alone on the big boulder, and study.

In a Strange Place.
Little Alice was visiting her grandparents in an eastern city. One Sunday grandpa took her to church with him. When sermon time came Mary looked around a little, and, seeing a relative up in the gallery, whispered shrilly: "Oh, grandpa, look up there! See Cousin Mary sitting on a shelf!"

Dinner Stories

A member of the Democratic national committee tells of an "old-timer" who, during the last campaign, took the stump in Iowa. It does not appear whether he gathered many converts to the party creed or not; but he certainly added to the humor of the situation.

On one occasion, when a vast crowd had gathered to hear him hold forth, he addressed them in this wise: "Fellow-citizens, our opponents are resorting to every form of dishonesty, deception and underhand trickery to keep the voters. But fellow-citizens, we warn them, and here his voice shook the rafters, "we warn them, fellow-citizens, that is a game that two can play at!"

A bookkeeping agent for a Chautauqua bureau visited a small town in the middle west. He called on a man who said that in order to introduce a Chautauqua it would be necessary to see the most prominent man of the town. Together they called on the "first citizen" and the bookkeeping agent was introduced. "Mr. Jones," said he, "I called to see you in regard to a Chautauqua. Won't do ye no good," spoke up the prominent man of the town. "Me and my wife have been pestered to death with automobile agents for six months, and now, by jing, we've ordered a machine we seen in a catalogue."

It also brings danger of bleeding and blood poison. The new way, the new principle never known before is corn-history is "GETS-IT." It's a liquid—2 drops on a corn does the work. Pain goes, the corn begins to shrivel and out it comes! You apply it in two seconds. Nothing to stick, nothing to hurt, and it never falls. ## CLASSIFIED WANT ADS.

"I made six pair of small bloomers this morning and they are all sold," said a happy faced young woman to a caller a few days back.

"What are you doing?"

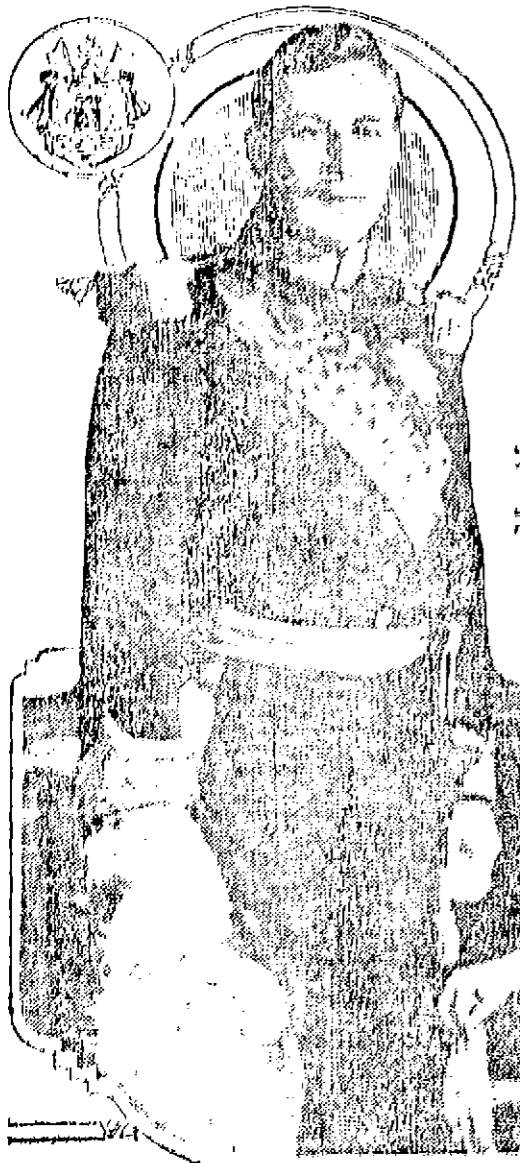

"Oh! I have entered the wage-earners lists. I do sewing for the woman's exchange. Last week I cleared within a few cents of three dollars—and did all my work besides. All but the laundry. That I have done—but as I earn the money it is no extravagance for plain people like us. I like to sew; I find the washing rather heavy for me. So I run my own little card in the paper, on the want ad page, and my fame as a maker of everyday clothes for small children is slowly but surely growing."

Just another practical demonstration of what advertising will do for women in the home—if women need aid, or desire to earn. If you are in either class, may we respectfully suggest that you grow to know the value of the want ad page? Try it.

MONARCHS WITHOUT A COUNTRY ARE BELGIUM'S KING AND QUEEN

This new picture of the King and Queen of Belgium has just reached the United States. "Of all the heroes of this enormous war who will live in the memory of man," says Maeterlinck, the famous Belgian author, "one of the purest, one who can never be loved enough, is the great young king of my little country—the most sensitive and mildest of men, dearest, silent, of delicious civility, who loves his people no less than a father loves his children."

Ever since the war started King Albert has personally led his gallant little army. Thinking only of the welfare of his people, he has forgotten self, and even his enemies say of him that he is every inch a king.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Anna Queeney.

The deceased was born in Ireland in 1826, and came to America in 1846, locating at Round Out, New York. Her maiden name was Anna Mahady. She came to Rock county in 1848, moving to Footville about forty years ago. She was married in Round Out, New York, in the same year that she moved west to Thomas Queeney, who died in 1903. She died of old age at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Patrick Noonan, of Magnolia, on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 3, at twelve-thirty o'clock, after a year's illness. She leaves the following children to mourn her loss: Mrs. James Meehan, Footville; Mrs. Sarah Linnen, Milwaukee; Mrs. Rosa Noonan, Magnolia; Mrs. Myra Noonan, Oronville; Thomas Queeney, Jr., of Beloit; John Queeney, Dakota, and nineteen grand children, and one great grandchild.

LOCAL BRIEF ITEMS.

Marriage License: A marriage license has been issued to Orlin Swenkinson of Allens Grove and Cora B. Newhouse of Clinton.

Evidently Spite Work: Announcement of the engagement of Miss Edith Ballentine, published last night, was untrue, the name being fictitious. The information was received in good faith by the Gazette and Miss Ballentine believes that the item was sent in purely out of spite on the part of some malicious person.

Sell your house or any other piece of real estate you may have through the want ad column—the cost is but a trifle.

TERMS OF FARM LIFE IN RURAL TEACHING

Advantages Attained by Introducing Rural Phaseology in the Schools of the Country.

"Country children should be taught in terms of country life," declares W. H. Hodges in a bulletin just issued by the United States bureau of education. In order to discover some of the definite things that have been done in rural public schools toward infusing into both parents and pupils the "day-on-the-farm" spirit, Mr. Hodges sent 2,500 letters to superintendents throughout the country who have rural schools under their supervision. From the replies many suggestions of special value have been received.

"Farm arithmetic, farm geography, and textbooks in agriculture" have been secured by Dorcas county, Va. Newton county, Mo., has succeeded in making the school a community center for having work done to supplement that done at home and by inducing patrons to visit the schools. The latter is accomplished by the "old farm wagon and big dinner" plan, whereby as many as 2,000 persons in the community have visited one school on a certain day in the year.

A teacher of Warren county, Ind., who gave her pupils the "option" of work in agriculture or virginia was astonished to find that in practically every instance the students took both subjects, and the grades rose beyond anything before experienced.

"We have improved domestic science teaching by means of coal-oil stoves and kitchen utensils which the patrons of the school gave through a kitchen shower," says an enthusiastic teacher from Chester township, Ohio. A teacher who was not a graduate in domestic science but who had "grit and determination" put the girls of this school to work in preparing hot lunches which were sold at a few cents. A varied menu was provided. Plainville township, Conn., selects one school in each village and makes of it "a model school" to demonstrate what a rural school under ordinary conditions may become. The result has been that the standard in all the schools in the country has been elevated.

In Caroline county, Md., lantern slide views, contrasting the best and poorest agricultural and domestic conditions are used to good effect.

Summing up the results of his investigation, Mr. Hodges declares: "The letters received reveal improvement everywhere in the schools for country children. There is a feeling that the country child will be best educated for whatever life he may lead, whether in the city or in the country, if taught in terms of country life. The movement toward this is nation wide. Country school houses are used to some extent as civic centers in all states of the union. No special feature of rural school work is confined to any one state or section. The home project method of teaching agriculture, used in Massachusetts, is also used in Louisiana, Wisconsin, and other states. Boys and girls' agricultural clubs are found in almost every state in the union."

COST EMANUEL PHILIPP
$4,147 TO BE ELECTED

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Dec. 4.—It cost Emanuel L. Philipp $4,147.28 to be elected governor, according to his final financial statement submitted to the secretary of state. This includes $468.87 spent in connection with the June convention in Madison, which placed him in nomination, which amount he believes is not properly within the provisions of the corrupt practices act. His personal campaign committee spent $237.60.

Michael K. Reilly of Fond du Lac, democrat, re-elected to congress, reported disbursements of $1,616.21. Edward B. Browne of Waupaca, re-elected congressman, spent $939.02. Henry Johnson, re-elected state treasurer, reported expenditures of $681.

TUBERCULOSIS FIGHT FOR PAST SIX YEARS

White Plague Enemy "The Crusader" Reviews Work Accomplished During Period of Time (Special to this Gazette)

Millwaukee, Dec. 3.—The power of "The Crusader" has been well known to the people of Wisconsin for the past six years. It has been a constant reminder to the people of the danger of tuberculosis and the need for its prevention. The review is an attractive, up-to-date, and well-illustrated book, which contains a complete record of the work of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association during the past six years.

In these days when the mortality rate is so high, it is not surprising that the public is becoming more and more interested in the fight against tuberculosis. The review is a valuable contribution to the knowledge of the public on this subject. It contains a complete record of the work of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association during the past six years, and is a valuable reference for all who are interested in the fight against tuberculosis.

Three years ago there was no place in the state of Wisconsin to which an advanced case of tuberculosis could be taken for treatment. In the year 1911, the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association was organized, and since that time it has been working for the betterment of the state in this regard.

The review is a valuable contribution to the knowledge of the public on this subject. It contains a complete record of the work of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association during the past six years, and is a valuable reference for all who are interested in the fight against tuberculosis.

DANISH PEOPLE ARE AN EDUCATED RACE

Indoor Plants, Rubber Plants, Cacti, Etc., Easily Kept With Proper Attention.

Only one person in 1,000 in Denmark is unable to read and write, as compared with even out of every 1,000 in the United States. (The 25,000 Danish children of school age only 300 failed to attend school during the year 1913.)

These and other significant facts are brought out by the report of the United States Bureau of Education. Mr. Focht recently visited Denmark to make personal investigation concerning school conditions, and has published the results in a bulletin just issued.

Compulsory attendance upon school between the ages of 7 and 14 is strictly enforced in Denmark, and the few who persist in neglecting their legal responsibilities are punished severely, but they are kind enough to change their minds.

According to Mr. Focht, the Danish schools are run six days a week, giving at least 216 school days in the year. The people are so imbued with the value of education that they will go to any extremity to keep children in school.

School life is made attractive by giving a place to popular songs. "All teachers," says Mr. Focht, "must be able to sing in the home whether they can sing or not." The teacher almost invariably accompanies the songs with a violin, which all teachers know how to use. School music includes patriotic, religious and folk songs.

Danish schools do not use a spelling book. Spelling is taught as a part of the reading process. Grammar is likewise taught by the "doing" method, as Mr. Focht expresses it. Instruction is given from some classic text in the language and rules of grammar are applied as needed. The little is emphasized in all the schools.

Children at school wear clean, neat, and the girls wear short bloomers like skirts. In their physical exercises, which have a prominent place in even the rural schools of Denmark, the pupils do most of the physical work themselves in giving freedom of movement.

Mr. Focht says that the secret of Denmark's high place in educational matters lies in the fact that the teacher has upon the entire school. Every teacher is a professional teacher. The salaries are among the highest given in any class of workers.

Teachers' houses with salaries of land attached, are furnished in addition to the already liberal salaries. Teaching is from every standpoint made honorable in Denmark. The teacher has high social standing, is a leader in both church and community, and is invariably pensioned for disability or age.

Teachers so thoroughly furnished and working under such happy conditions, it is naturally "extremely" a high order of teaching. Mr. Focht says:

Pretty Eau Claire School Girl Makes Trouble For Principal Jack

Miss Florence Blood, wearing her hair in an "alluring" way.

Principal J. M. Jack of the Eau Claire high school, a former inmate of the Rock County Jail, is having his own troubles as the result of a girl with whom he has a falling out. Miss Florence Blood, who is ordered home to keep her hair because "she wore it in such an alluring" way.

The Danish teachers deny upon their record, however, and the school board has been holding daily sessions in an effort to bring about a peaceful settlement. Jack, finally, refused to allow the school to furnish everything required.

WISCONSIN LEADS IN THE PEA INDUSTRIES

Two-thirds of All the Canned Product on the Market Grown in the Badger State.

December 1-23 marked the annual convention of the Pea Growers of the United States at Milwaukee. Five hundred persons interested in the business from the states of Ohio, New York, Utah, Indiana, and Wisconsin were present and many of the speakers were present and many of the speakers were present.

There are thirty pea canneries in the state of Wisconsin alone and they produce better than two-thirds of the total production of the United States. Four million cases of eight can peason can of Wisconsin grown and Wisconsin canned peas are sold. This places Wisconsin in the foremost rank of the pea canning industry of the country and gives employment to thousands in the factories and fields during the growing and canning season.

The P. Hebebrand factory, located in Janesville, has the unique distinction of growing the major portion of its product on specially leased or owned farms. Six hundred of the best hundred acres are given over to peas and the Janesville manufactured product goes far and wide. The majority of the entire production contract for their product from farmers.

A Team in London. This is no emphatically the age of the motor car that a sight witnessed by the writer seems worthy of record. Two horses passed down the Strand within five minutes of each other, and both were dappled to an unusual extent. The mathematical odds against such a coincidence must be very great.

FOR fine surfaces, of furniture, automobiles, woodwork; and not for mops or floors.

TOBEY Polish

It's not a veneer; it's work is to clean, to "condition," to restore, to prolong life—on all kinds of fine finishes—varnish, shellac or enamel.

These are the uses and functions of Tobey Furniture Polish. In this field it has no equal; you can find out the truth of this in one trial.

Remarkable New Drug Store Service!

The establishment of SAN-TOX service to the public is based upon the uniform excellence of SAN-TOX preparations and is the culmination of a nation-wide campaign for better and more reliable drug store service inaugurated by the manufacturers of the SAN-TOX preparations and selected high-class retail drug stores.

There has long been a crying need for just such service to the public. Deception in drugs and toilet necessities has long been rife. Nostrums without number have been foisted upon the public. Druggists themselves have been helpless. The conscientious druggist will not recommend such worthless nostrums. Yet he cannot do otherwise than sell them when they are called for.

No More Doubt—No More Deception

The SAN-TOX preparations are the very highest grade that a combination of thorough pharmaceutical knowledge and skill and purest drugs and other ingredients can produce. The remedies are not patent medicines. They are made from formulas of proven value—formulas which, for the most part, have been used for years by the medical profession. There is a SAN-TOX remedy for practically every minor ailment. Your SAN-TOX druggist will recommend it and his recommendation is based upon his exact knowledge of what the remedy contains.

The SAN-TOX TOILET SPECIALTIES are made from purest ingredients obtainable, after selected formulas. There is one for every toilet need—they are of the highest grade in every particular at popular prices.

Nothing Secret About

SanTox

None of the toilet preparations are secret. Your SAN-TOX dealers will gladly show the formulas of any of them upon request. Each preparation bears upon the carton the SAN-TOX guarantee and if it does not give perfect satisfaction your dealer will cheerfully refund your money. Every SAN-TOX druggist has agreed to do so.

Make a SAN-TOX Trial At Our Risk

Go to the SAN-TOX druggist listed below and buy, for instance, a bottle of SAN-TOX Eau de Cologne. Use it a few days and judge for yourself how thoroughly it cleanses the scalp, gets rid of dandruff, makes all scalp irritation, stops the hair from falling out, and how thick and glossy it makes the hair. Compare it, from actual results obtained, with any other hair tonic you have ever used and if you do not find it vastly superior in every respect, the SAN-TOX druggist will refund your money.

Look For the SAN-TOX Nurse Trade Mark

Whenever you are in need of a toilet preparation for any purpose whatever, or a safe, minor ailment, be sure to go to the SAN-TOX drug store or your local druggist and ask for a SAN-TOX preparation. Notice the Nurse Trade Mark on the package. It is emblematic of quality, purity and safety.
